

Springwater a charming Craftsman lodge

By Associated Designs

The Springwater is a single-story, Craftsman-style lodge. This rustic-ly elegant home has more than 3,000 square feet of indoor living space linked to spacious patios on the side and rear. The abundance of indoor and outdoor living areas makes it well suited for entertaining on a large and lavish scale.

It was designed for a couple that needs two home offices and a guest room, but those rooms could be furnished as bedrooms.

Entering via the lofty Craftsman-style porte-cochere and vaulted entry porch, you step into a wide, vaulted foyer where light washes down through a row of clerestory windows set high in the wall. The foyer is open to the dining area on the left and the vaulted great room straight ahead. Windows fill most of the dining room's front wall, while glass-centered double doors open onto a vaulted, covered patio.

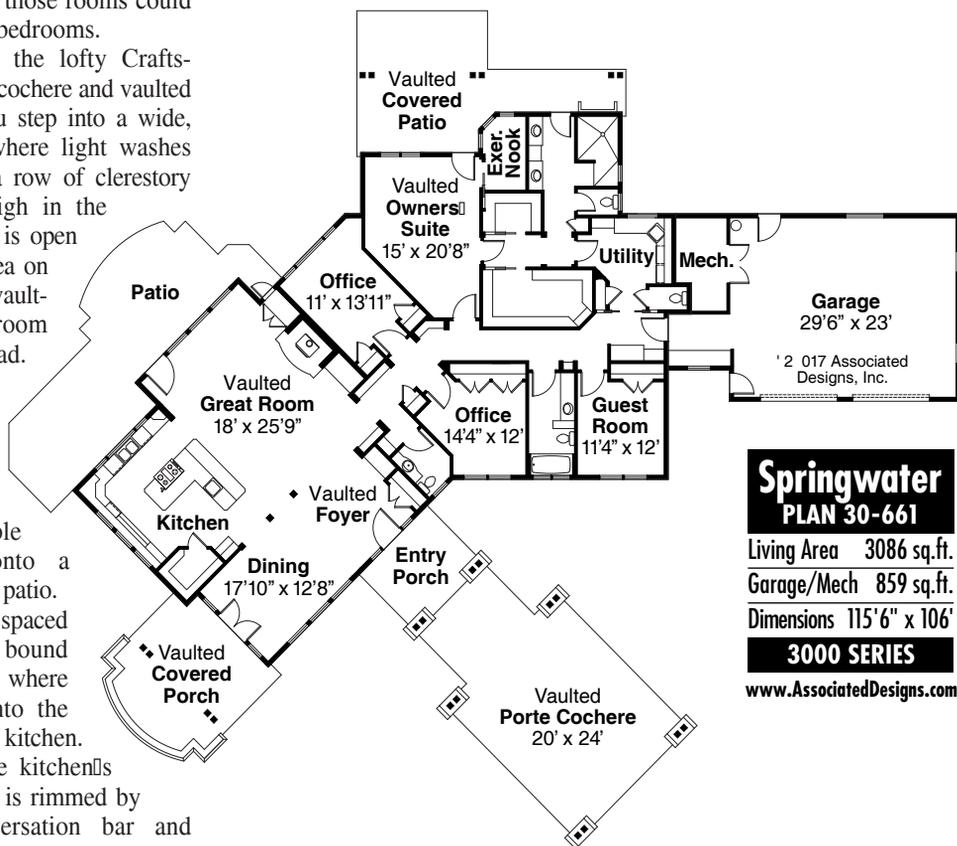

Three evenly spaced wooden posts bound the dining room where it transitions into the great room and kitchen. One side of the kitchen's L-shaped island is rimmed by an eating/conversation bar and fronts the great room. This section has a built-in prep sink, while its other arm has under-counter veggie baskets on one side, and a four-burner range on the other. A huge walk-in pantry fills the corner next to the kitchen's built-in phone desk.

The covered and vaulted patio adds private living space outside a vaulted owners' suite that boasts two large walk-in closets, one twice the size of the other. Other luxuries include: an exercise nook, and a private bathroom with walk-in shower, dual vanity, private toilet, and direct covered patio access. The Springwater's outdoor shower would be particularly appreciated near a pool or spa.
